Subject: New Student Information Updates
Date: Monday, July 20, 2009 11:00:35 AM

It is hard to believe that two weeks of orientation has past and one week to go. I want to keep in touch with a few announcements. If you have missed the last few emails I have sent out because you switched majors etc. I have posted these on the college orientation website (<http://www.science.vt.edu/student/orientation/index.html>).

For those that have attended orientation, thanks for bringing copies of IB credits, dual enrollment, and Advance Placement information. This has made a world of difference in the advising process.

For students that will be attending orientation the last week, I want to encourage you to bring copies of the information listed above to the 4:45 p.m. Day 1 session in MCB 100. This session is not heavily advertised, but it is very important. Please make sure you attend. Also, please carry an umbrella or rain gear. Parents and students have been caught off guard with the Blacksburg weather and have attend sessions dripping wet because of sudden rain showers.

For all students

Please keep checking your emails.

I am posting a listing of acceptable freshmen level courses. Please review these in the event that you will need to add a course upon your arrival this fall.

Please include your full name and student ID number (905) on any correspondence you send to faculty and staff at Virginia Tech. We have several students with the same first and last name, so we need to be able to distinguish between the two. It is good practice to type up a signature line that you can insert when corresponding with faculty and staff. Many students list their full name, ID number, Email address, major, and tentative year of graduation. This is all valuable information when working with students.

Lastly, we will be holding a mandatory advising session on the Sunday before classes start. I will be sending you and email with the time and place of this meeting.

It has been a great two weeks and I am looking forward to orientation this week.

As always, let me know if you have any questions.
